CONFIDENCE
 CREATIVITY
 COMMUNITY. 4 ALL!

"Without financial assistance we would not be able to afford the Ceramics class. CHAW has had a life-altering positive influence on [my child's] mental, social and academic endeavors. Since attending CHAW this past summer, [my child] has gained self-confidence and a love of the arts that has positively impacted every facet of her life. It allowed her to learn and to truly experience art as a way of life. This is a particularly challenging time in [her] life and the ceramics class will allow her to benefit from not only expanding her artistic skill but also to see the therapy that art provides.... [Tuition assistance] gave our family the opportunity to experience something that we could not otherwise afford. Our daughter thinks she is a sculptor."

WHY WE GIVE
 Patrick Crowley, CHAW Board Member

What originally drew you to CHAW? What has made you stay?
 Jill invited me for coffee to ask me to join the board of CHAW, about which I knew almost nothing. I was hesitant to begin a new community service burden given that I had just started a new job. But on my way to meet Jill at CHAW I passed by a mother and daughter just emerging from CHAW's front steps. The little girl, still dressed in her pink tutu, was gleefully showing her mother the moves they had learned that day as she danced down the sidewalk. The joy in her eyes won me as an advocate before I had even entered the building.

What does "community" mean to you?
 Community is that gravitational force that holds a neighborhood together. It takes hold when the individuals begin to perceive that they and their friends or neighbors are part of something that is greater and better than themselves. A community attracts joyful participation and a genuine desire that the community prosper, whether or not that prosperity enhances the individual's life. And that's what I perceive when I mention CHAW around Capitol Hill, a palpable happiness and pride in a great institution that brings wonderful gifts to generation after generation of neighbors who discover talents they never knew were there.
